

WEIK CAPITAL MANAGEMENT

Customer Relationship Summary – Form CRS

Introduction

Weik Capital Management (Weik) is an investment adviser registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Brokerage and investment advisory fees and services differ and it is important to understand the differences. Free and simple tools are available to research investment firms and financial professionals at Investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisors, and investing.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

Weik provides professional investment management services to its clients on a discretionary basis. We do not provide financial planning services, brokerage or tax advice. Weik requests discretionary authority from the client at the outset of an advisory relationship to select the securities to be employed and the amount to be bought or sold. In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account. Portfolios are monitored using a team approach that typically involves multiple reviews, but at least one in-depth review, by members of the investment team on a monthly basis. For qualified clients, Weik may recommend investing their assets in one of the partnerships it manages.

MORE DETAILED INFORMATION ABOUT OUR SERVICES CAN BE FOUND IN ITEMS 4 AND 7 OF OUR FORM ADV, PART 2A BROCHURE.

Questions to Ask Us:

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

What fees will I pay?

Management/advisory fees are invoiced quarterly. Fees are based on the portfolio value at the conclusion of the prior quarter and are payable in advance for the quarter. The more assets there are in a retail investor's advisory account, the more a retail investor will pay in fees, and Weik may therefore have an incentive to encourage the retail investor to increase the assets in his or her account. Clients may incur certain charges imposed by custodians, brokers, and other third parties such as transaction charges, custodial fees, transfer taxes, wire transfer fees and other fees and taxes associated with brokerage accounts and securities transactions. Mutual funds and exchange traded funds/notes also charge internal management fees, which are disclosed in a fund's prospectus. The sole source of Weik revenue is the management/advisory fees it receives from its clients. Weik does not participate in any brokerage, fund, or custodial charges.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

Questions to Ask Us:

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

Conflicts of interest can exist when Weik recommends whether a client should establish an individual portfolio or participate in a limited partnership. There are modest differences in fees and management time requirements. Recommendations are based on the individual circumstances and objectives of the client. A potential conflict of interest is created when we are requested to provide advice concerning the rollover of retirement plan assets to an IRA that would be managed by Weik. We endeavor to make every effort to offer objective advice, but this conflict should be noted, as a decision to rollover would create additional business for our firm.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?
